

Shifra Cornfeld

Author

Ms. Cornfeld was born in Jerusalem in the winter of 1980, the second of eight siblings. She grew up in the Old City as part of an Orthodox Haredi family.

She holds a BA in Industrial Design from Bezalel School of Art.

In 2012, she published her first novel, "The Second Half of the Night" (Kinneret Zemora Bitan).

In 2008 she participated and was the winner of "Big Brother" – the Israeli version of the international reality TV hit.

Ms. Cornfeld also wrote a weekly column for "Laisha Magazine", and along with Kobi Ariely, hosted the radio show "Nighttime Birds" on Galei Zahal Radio.